A Novel Case 'Among the several cases that engaged the attention of Justice R. H. Bunting at his court yesterday was that of the state vs. E. F. Hanna, local agent of the Intermediate Life Insurance Company, of Baltimore. Mr. Hanna was charged with the larceny of a policy of insurance, payable to Alice Faison, colored, as beneficiary, and issued on the life of Lovey Faison. The warrant was sworn out by one John Roberson, colored, at the inness in this city. ing a week or so ago, and by request of whip nex morning. The night guards ses counsel was set for trial yesterday. Messrs. Marsden Bellamy and Herbert McClammy represented the prosecution, and Messrs. John D. Bellamy and George L. Peschau appeared for the defense. The counsel for the plaintiff contends that the and whip untill he hardley could travel policy of insurance, the face value of which amounted to $208, had been obtain- was busted on him in several places. ed by trick from an attendant, while the assured was at the point of death and in the absence from home of the beneficiary.

Alice Faison, the mother of Lovey Faison, who died, was introduced as a witness by the proescution, testified that on the 18th of June she was absent from home, and when she returned she was told that Mr. Hanna had called and taken the policy, stating that he was compelled to take it back as it was taken out while Lovey Faison was sick. He left $1, which amounted to about the for the negro to take charge of the stockpremiums that had been paid. The witness testified that she never saw Mr. Hanna then and never signed a receipt for the returned premium.

Other witnesses were introduced to prove that Mr. Hanna called and got the policy back.

Mr. Hanna was put up by the defense and testified that he is agent for the Immediate Insurance Company, of Baltimore; that when he went to Lovey Faison's house to collect the premium on her policy he found her in bed sick. She told him she was sick when the policy was issued, so, according to the terms of the contract, he took the policy back.

There was other testimony, but the above is sufficient to show what the case is. The counsel on both sides addressed the court at length, and Justice Bunting reserved his decision till 3 p. m. tomorrow.

A Battlefield Acquaintance Renewed.

The Rev. P. C. Morton, the Presbyterian evangelist stationed at Whiteville, Columbus county, who has been in our city since Thursday, returned home yesterday. Yesterday while Mr. Morton was in the Kerchner building on Water street, in search of the office of Messrs. Smith & Gilchrist, he stepped into an office on the same floor to inquire where their office was. The gentleman he made the inquiry of was Captain James I. Metts, a gallant confederate soldier who came so nearly losing his life in the bloody battle at Gettysburg in July, 1863. When Captain 'Metts told Mr. Morton his name, the latter gentleman inquired if he was any kin to Lieutenant Jimmie Metts, who was killed at Gettysburg. Captain Metts informed him that he was no kin to him, but that he was the man himself. The two had not met for thirty-four years and the surprise and pleasure of one meeting the other, whom he presumed was dead, can well be imagined.

Captain 'Mett's was shot through the right lung at Gettysburg, and the ball having passed clear through his body, it was thought impossible for him to recover. Mr. Morton was a chaplain in the confederate army and was left at Gettysburg to minister to the wounded who fell into the hands of the federals and were in the hospital at that place. It was in the hospital, desperately wounded, that Mr. Morton last saw Captain Metts until they met last Friday. He naturally supposed that a man so desperately wounded could not live, but the meeting of as lively a dead man as Captain metts now is proved that he was mistaken.

Arrested on the Sound

Yesterday about 12:35 o'clock, Deputy Sheriff Jimmie Murray arrested a colored boy named Ward, about 18 years of age for stealing clams from the Mr. Snell's place at Ocean View. When the boy saw the officer comming he made for a boat and tried to escape, but was overtaken. He jumped into the water and was captured by Officer Murrray and Captain Gillican, after he had come within an ace of being drowned. He was brought to the city and placed in jail till Monday when he will have a hearing before Justice R. H. Bunting.

Corpse of a Child Found on the River

Captain S. S. Burruss, who runs a flat on the river, informs us that on the east bank, about four miles south of the city, he noticed yesterday afternoon a large number of vultures. He went ashore to see what they were after, and found the remains of an infant which they had de-It had been tied up in a pillow case, and ness beats anything that ever came under the same locality, a most reprehensible river and floated by the tide to the point where he found it.

Fire at Federal Point

Friday night about 11 o'clock the residence of Mrs. Sarah J. Freeman, at Federal Point, caught fire and was burned down. The neighbors turned out and did all they could to save the house but to no purpose. The house, a structure of one story and a half, was totally destroyed and also nearly all the contents. Mrs. Freman was fortunate, however, in having her house and furniture insured to the amount of $400, with Colonel Walker Taylor, of this city.

The Accident to Emperor William.

London, July 18 .- A special dispatch from Berlin says that the fact that Emperor William is returning to Kiel for an examination of the eye recently injured, confirms the fears that the accimitted, the danger growing out of the general low health of the kaiser.

An Ex-Prisoner Writes From the State

Farm The following is sent to The Messenger by a colored ex-prisoner at the state penitentiary farm known as Caledonia, in Halifax county:

Caliadonia Farm Idams, Tillery, N. C., July 14, '97.

Please allow me space in your columns to say that we have a vary good crop on this farm at present, and all of the prisnors are well satisfied at they treatment stance, the defense contends, of a rival as about labor, but after taking they rest Virginia insurance company doing busi- at night barbarism take place nex morning. The night guards goes in the cells at night and make them dance and du all The case was called before Justice Bunt- kind of meanness and then haves them that the prisnors will not obey them, but it is strang that they haves so mutch truble at night and the Overseers has no truble in the day On the 12th of July the night guard repoted a prisnor hear for saucying him and he was taken in the commossary Dr. ses they is great danger. The skin Though the supervisor would not consent to strike him but a few likes, the Whipping Master whip him and used the strop to his own advantage, and sence the negro has become to be a better guard then was expected. Only one has escaped and that was by the cearlessness of the Overseer, who had the prisnor to go out of sight of the guard wich give chance to escape. As fur as the guards is consern. I think the negro has beat the record and when the Enamy of right and justice makes they way to the top of the surface, and behole all the prisnors is hear, then they belth forth the smook of deception and then say it will not du cage as night guards. They say that the negro is a custom to sleeping, when one a too of the white gards has ben caught sleep on duty, owen to the honesty of the prisnors. They has been seen chunking stones to wake them up reather then to escape. The negro has to stay on duty 18 hours to the day and the white guards 12, but after all the negro holes his prisnors. But a few days ago all of the Overseers took they squads of prisnors, counted them and went to they worke, and be hold, they left one prisnor in the cell asleep and he awaked about 7 o'clock and he was afraid if he was cought in there that he would be whip, so he slip out the stockcage gate by one of the about too miles away, the prisnor having a sentance of eight years. Away with the Republican & Peoples Partys ruling as fur as they treatment towards the negro, for us and time will prove it to them.

Yours, EXSPRESSONENT.

white guards and went to his worke

And if this is denied we will say more

Close of the State Line Chautauqua. (Correspondence of The Messenger.)

Fair Bluff, N. C., July 16. The State Line Chautauqua closed its interesting exercises tonight. It has been a grand success and it is the opinion of every one that the great Sunday school work has been magnified in the eyes of the people by the splendid addresses and lectures of the distinguished men from both North and South

Before the chautauqua adjourned there was an enthusiastic meeting of the leading citizens and business men with the distinguished visitors, and after a full and free discussion it was resolved to hold an annual chautauqua at this place to be known as the State Line Sunday School Chautauqua. The following officers were elect-

President-Rev. J. D. Perry, D. D., Hartsville, S. C. Vice Presidents-Mr. D. D. Caldwell, Lumberton, N. C.; Mr. A. F. Powell, Vineland, N. C.; Mr. E. W. Nolley, Conway, S. C.; Hon. J. E. Pettigrew, Florence, S. C.

Secretary-Professor N. D. Johnson, Fair Bluff, N. C. Treasurer-Mr. I. M. Powell, Fair

Bluff, N. C. Executive Committee-Rev. J. A. Smith, Fair Bluff; Rev. B. W. Spillman, Raleigh, N. C., and Messrs J. E. Johnson, B. A. Anderson, and Oscar Page,

Fair Bluff, N. C. The State Line Chautauqua will be an important meeting to the Christian workers and citizens of the two great and dribe de pervishun wagon, an' Carolinas. Elaborate preparations will be made for the chautauqua of 1898, and already the citizens of Fair Bluff are beginning to look forward with pleasure to this great annual gathering | twenty yeah more now, an' ole mis-The citizens of this place feel under lasting obligations to the firm of Ludden & Bates for furnishing a splendid piano for the late chautauqua and they appreciate the kindness of the talented | pined right away. Jim an' me's been young men from Lumberton who made | here ebber since. 'Taint much dat the musical feature such a great attraction. Rev. B. M. Spillman, of Raleigh, conducted this chautauqua, and he has impressed our people with the idea that he was one of the best Sunday school workers in the state. We expect to see Wilmington well represented at the chautauqua of 1898.

How's This.

We offer One Hundred Dollars reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. We, the undersigned, have known F. J.

Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm. WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O. Hall's Catarrh Cure is takeen internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucsent free. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by ever expect them to occur," said Representative R. L. Henry, of Texas, to-day. I remember once a scene in our state voured, with the exception of the frame. legislature which for downright ludicrous- his porous plasters and his fly paper in my observation. A member from one of and inexcusable habit. The victim that had probably been thrown in the big reputation at the bar had vainly and inexcusable habit. The victim been endeavoring for about half an hour ed it in a hurry. He felt around in the to get recognition from the speaker. He darkness and he found the fly paper. It had been on his feet fifty different times, his voice, but the official seemed bent on not recognizing him. Finally worn out by the member's importunity, the speaker at last said, "The gentleman from San Antonio,' and the gentleman from San Then a curious thing happened. The statesman who had been struggling so energetically to be heard found himself unable to deliver a single sentence. In vulgar parlance, he was 'stuck,' and though he tried hard to overcome his temporary paralysis of speech, the words wouldn't come. Whlie still on his feet stuttering forth a disjointed word that 'little meaning, little relevancy bore.' some well-meaning, but rough-spoken colleague yelled out: "Sit down there. you-old fool!' 'I thank thee, Roderick, for the word,' said the member as he turned with a beaming smile on his adviser and immediately took his seat amid the roars of the house. In the legislature a country representative got up and velled: 'Mr. Speaker! Mr. Speaker! a p'int; I rise to a p'int of order!' 'Make it a quart, and I'll recognize you,' said the gentleman in the chair, but the country-man was so incensed at the laughter of dent is more serious than has been ad- his associates that he stalked from the from their sockets. floor."-Washington Letter in the New York Tribune.

Broke His Embrrassment

The Financial Market. (By Henry Crews & Co.)

New York, July 17. The extraordinary exports of this country for the past fiscal year, amounting to over $1,000,000,000 and resulting in an excess over imports of $287,500,000, makes a most gratifying showing, and is in itself a strong incentive for the growth of confidence in business circles. The present United States treasury balance, showing $232,-900,000, $142,813,000 of which is in gold, is also a most favorable feature. Another favorable factor is that there is not only a promise of good crops, but also of high prices; so that we are now witnessing a strong market and also one equally so for both grain and cotton, the three markets being backed by confident buying. This is an unusual circumstance and one which Wall street has not for a long time experiencd. It foreshadows also that the import of gold will soon start this way in exchange for our products and securities. Europe will be sure to buy both in large quantities very soon. Instead of Argentina, India and Australia being exporters of wheat, as heretofore, and in consequence serious competitors, they are likely to import more or less. The exports of wheat from this country from the last crop amounted to 147,000,000 bushels. Appearances indicate that a much larger quantity will be required from our present crop. This insures a remunerative price for the product of this year and prosperity to the farmer. It is an important factor to note that the sections of the country known as the silver-producing states have now become gold producers on an important scale, owing to the enterprise of the people having been turned to hunting for the yellow metal in place of the white, because the demand for the one is universal and the other but limited. It is generaly conceded that the advance in American securities has been without any material help from London, the transactions from that quarter for some time past having been purchases and sales for moderate profits and quick turns. This, therefore, places us in a position of not being compelled to take back our securities from abroad at high prices. They are not now held in large quantities in speculative hands on the other side.

A Vigil Ended

(Written for The Messenger.) Yes suh, me an' Jim Brown wuz brudders. We wuz born on de same day on B-plantation nigh on to two mile from here. L-e-m-m-e see, hit wuz sixty yeah today. Twon't much dat wuz gwine on heah dat me and Jim didn't know sumthin' 'bout. He wuz de mos' quisitive coon, suttenly, dat I ebber knowd. An' dat boy, he wuz as strong as a bull yearlin' and he won't feared o' nothin'. Mean? No. dat he warn'. All de white folks lubbed Jim. Ob course, he wuz allers a prodjeckin', and dat nigger played his pranks on ebberybody. But dere warn't nothin' mean 'bout him. I'se seen ole marster, whip in hand, and kind o' stern like, take dat nigger for de puppose o' whippin' him, but arter 'splanations by dat coon, de ole marster, he jes could'nt. Dar seemed to be sumthin' bout doze 'splanations dat 'culiarly 'fected ole margter. Sure, he would cuss, but den dat wuz his way. An' Marse Henry? Yes, suh, he an' Jim wuz same as one, mos'. But den Jim he belong to Marse Henry. Ole marster he gib him to young marster when dey bofe wuz young. Marse Henry he thought all de world ob Jim, and Jim, he thought dar warn' nuffin' good 'nuff fur Marse Henry. An' dar warn'. Dem wuz happy days fur all o' us. Ole Marter he had plenty o' money, an' lots o' niggers. In de big house ober yonder dar wuz times which dis ole ribber pears to me won' debber see agin. Dah wuz company, and dah war picnics, and I 'member how Jim and me used to put on our Sunday clothes wait on Marse Henry an' all de young marsters an' missusses, an' sech like. Dat wuz afore de war. 'Taint so now. Ole marster's been dead gwine on some sus-well 'twont long 'fore she followed ole marster. Marse Henry he wuz killt at Chancellorsville and it kind o' seemed like arter dat de ole folks jes we've been a doin'. A litle fiishin' an' a farmin', but den 'taint much we've needed. We've been keeping a kind o' watch ober de ole place. D'ye see dem oaks ober yonder, young marster? Dats where marster an' de family grabes is. An' away ober in de corner ob de fence by de swamp? Dats whar ole Jim wants to go."

His paisied head turned in the direction of a rude coffin at the end of the shanty. He rose, and with labored steps advanced towards it. He reached it and looking around, in faltering tones asked: "An' you don't spec' de ole folks would 'bject?" I anewered

GEORGE LUDWIG PESCHAU.

A Hot Porus Plaster

A certain Pennsylvania man will make up his mind before he leaves the doctor's hands that he is paying very ous surfaces of the system. Testimonials dearly for a little unnecessary experience. For the want of a horseshoe nail the kingdom was lost, and for the want of a lucifer match the Pennsylvania "Indescribably funny things happen man is in the hospital. It all happened orderly, in the police court. because of the dusk of evening, this condition being aided and abetted by the additional fact that the man keeps was as sticky as well-regulated fly shouting, 'Mr. Speaker!' at the top of paper has any occasion to be, and the man mistook it for the porous plaster. He slapped it on his chest and sought the retirement of his room. Therein he went through an experience which Antonio started in to deliver a speech. has perhaps never been duplicated. That bogus plaster hadn't been in place but a short time when the man remarked: "Gee whiz! but she's beginning to catch hold!" Ten inutes later he drew a long breath and growled: "Hully smoke! but this is hot stuff!" And then the rest of the family was suddenly roused up by a mingling of war dance and earthquake, and the wild shricks of a man in limited costume, who was fiercely bellowing: "Help, help, murder, fire, police, wow.

wow, wow!" When they drew the fly paper from him the cover of his chest came with it, and the doctor found that the hinges of three of his ribs were nearly pulled He'll know the difference next time. -Cleveland Plain Dealer.

CRULE CRINICS OF FRANCE

Why the French Are Weaker Than the Angle Saxons

(New York Tribune.) No more cruel criticism of France has ever been printed than that contained in the remarkable book just published by the well-known French author and scientist, Edmond Demolins, and which bears the title "Reasons for the Superiority of the Anglo-Saxon Race." It is a book which, wonderful to relate, is arousing no anger or irritation on the part of the countrymen of the writer. On the contrary, his statements are accepted as true, though sad, and the Parisian press abandoning for once in the way its briliant frivolity, discusses the book with an altogether unusual sobriety and earnestness, declaring that no matter how painful the perusal of its pages will be to patriotic Frenchmen, it is the bounded duty of the latter to swallow to the last drop the unpalatable dose contained in M. Demolins's cup of bitterness. "The things that M. Demolins tells us.

writes Jules Lemaitre, of the French Academy, in The Paris Figaro, "we knew already; and if we did not know them. we at least suspected their existence. But he has assembled them together, and given concise expression thereto, and from his essay, which is as convincing as it is distressing, we are placed face to face sire. with our own weakness and our own inferiority as compared with the immense social, political, commercial, industrial, financial and moral superiority of the Anglo-Saxon race. For it is not the acknowledged superiority of our cooks and of our playyrights which will ever save us, and it is probable that our superiority in all artistic matters is nothing more than a mere useless luxury.'

The eminent academician agrees with the author of the book that one of the main causes of this superiority is the fact that the French nation is a communal organization-that is to say, an organization where every one relies upon his neighbor instead of himself, whereas the Anglo-Saxons are a race or particularistic formation-that is to say, a race each member which relies upon himself instead of anybody else. Another person is to be found in the schools which, according to Messrs. Lemaitre and Demolins, turn out nothing but government officials in France, whereas in the United States and in England they turn out men in the full sense of the word." Our system of education tends to impair the growth of the population. For, inasmuch as government offices are not sufficiently remunerative to constitute a means of livelihood, the parents are compelled to save as many independent fortunes as they have children. Not only does this lead them to have as few children as possible, but likewise has the effect of withdrawing from trade and industry money which would otherwise be used for the development thereof, instead of being invested in bonds and stocks that are often those of a foratever to and in Great Britain, on the contrary, schools prepare the pupils for the struggle of life and for enterprises of an industrial, commercial and agricultural character, rather than for underpaid government service. The consequence is that money, instead of being hoarded, circulates, that there is no dread of an abundance of children and that the home acks that tendency toward avarice which is the future of so many of the families of the middle and lower classes in

BLIGHTING INFLUENCES OF POLI-

M. Demolins and his eminent reviewer. the Academician Lemaitre, then go on to show that the preference of the French for public service over agricultural, in dustrial and commercial pursuits results in the absurdity of having a national legislature composed of 150 former government officials, the balance being composed of journalists, lawyers and doctors, who for the most part are far from being the cream of their respective professions, which they would not have abondoned for politics had they achieved success in their various callings. Compared to this the English house of commons is composed to the extent of four-fifths of great landowners, manufacturers and merchants, men representative, in one word of the trade, the industry and the agriculture of the empire.

It is thanks to this and to other analogous considerations enumerated by the author of the book in question that the United States and Great Britain are more ree than any country from socialism and from the most reactionary and backward organizations, the organization which, of all, is the most fatal to activity, development and to individual dignity. No wonder, then, that the Anglo-Saxon race is destined to become before long the master of the world. It has supplanted and subjected all other races in North America, in India, in Australia, and in Africa and the remainder of the worldthat is to say, South America and that portion of Asia not comprised by India, through its commerce and its industry, That is why the conviction is held that, no matter what the outcome of the present imbroglio in the Orient. it is the Anglo-Saxon race which will profit the most thereby.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

Telegraphic Sparks. The president sends to the senate the nomination of Terrence V. Powderly, of Pennsylvania, to be commissioner general of immigration.

In Atlanta, Ga., under a decision by the attorney general, it is probable that all water and gas plants and all other forms of municipal property, which may pay a revenue, will hereafter be returned for taxation.

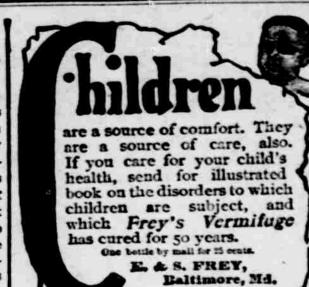

At Toronto, Ont., Peter Martin, who tore down a stars and stripes from the city hall Friday, was fined $1.00 and costs or thirty days in jail as a dis-

Most torturing and disfiguring of itching, burning, scaly skin and scalp humors is instantly relieved by a warm bath with CUTI-CURA SOAP, a single application of CUTICURA (ointment), the great skin cure, and a full dose of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, greatest of blood purifiers and humor cures, when all else fails.

FALLING HAIR Pimply Faces, Baby Blemishes, Cured by CUTICUEA SQAP.

DO YOU WANT WORK-WE NEED several Agents in different sectios of this State and South Carolina to handle our Machines. Experience unnecessary. Liberal compensation to the right kind MANUFACTURING CO., Wilmington, jy 20 3m tues

THE HARDEST HEAD IN AMERICA

St. Joseph, Mo. has a negro, "Country" Gordon by name, on whose head the funny writers could base all their merry jokelets and still confine themselves to the truth. Gordon has probably the hardest head in the United States, and he has had more opportunities of demonstrating the fact than any other man would de

Country Gordon, says an exchange, is Virginian by birth. When a young man | vel-I will prove it to you. Have you a he went to Iowa to work in a coal mine. the white miners were on a strike, and kitchen and turned over to his use the negro labor was obtained to replace them. kettle in which he usually made the soup Naturally the strikers were not pleasantly for the restaurant. The visitor put about disposed toward them, and the negroes were warned to be on their guard. One off day Gordon concluded to go to town in the neighborhood to get a glass of beer. The strikers were plentiful about the saloon, and Gordon got his glass of beer quicker than he expected, but not in the right spot. Before he had a chance to order his liquid refreshment a striker let him have a glass of beer—in the head glass and all. The glass ricochetted harmlessly from his pate, and the strikers began to bombard him with bottles, glasses, bung starters and other missiles, none of which made any impression on him

He went back to the mine, and a day or two latter he fell down a shaft. He It had the exact soup taste. "That's wonstruck on his head and was not hurt. He derful," he said. "Here's your $10. Did developed a regular mania for falling you intend to sell any more in town?" down the shaft, and, concluding that he might some day land on his feet and kill eating house across the street. himself, he quit the business.

ages consisted of a tearing up of the Once a keg of beer fell on his head. The jarring he got extended throughout his body, and injured his legs, but there flattened on his skull. On another occasion an enemy in a rage brought down a heavy iron poker on his nead. Such a blow would have fractured the skull of any ordinary man. As it was, only the poker suffered. It was bent and kneaded a new raising pan is fitted with with warm water to heat the dough to the right temperature without the necessity of placing it on the stove, where it

In a new block signal system for railroads the signals are operated automatcally by the passing train, which closes the block as it enters and opens it as it enters the next block, which is in turn closed, thus telling the next engineer if there is a train close ahead of him.

It is Owned by a Colored Man Out in Mis-

He next tried carrying the hod, a profession involving possibilities in the way monopoly of this thing." The stranger of receiving falling bricks, falling from assented, and made for the depot with all ladders, etc., in which a hard head is a desideratum. One day while climbing a ladder with a hod of bricks a bricklayer dropped a brick on him from the sixth thusiasm, called him in and told him floor. It struck Gordon on the head and eign government, and of no productive- broke the brick. As for Gordon, he never thing monopolized," he said. "It's a great apped on his way On one ocasion he fell down three stories, but as he landed on his head all dam-> was no injury at the point of contact. He was shot another time-the bullet > twisted, but Gordon's head remained

Gordon has engaged in numerous fights. His unsophisticated adversaries have generally aimed their blows at his head, as the most vulnerable point. As a result, he has won every fight without having to strike a blow. His enemies have retired with bruised knuckles and broken fingers. When Gordon dies the physicians of St. Joseph would like to explore that skull of his to ascertain of what material it is

Some Late New Things A newly designed bust form for dress makers' use is made of a series of non collapsible rigid vertical stays, with ad justable cross bands attached by means of clamps, so they can be expended until the proper shape and size is obtained. A new medical inhaler for diseases o the head and throat passages is composed of a water-proof fabric, to be stretched over the mouth and nose, with an atomizer at one side to produce vapor from the medicine for the patient to breathe. Baby cribs are being placed on the mar-ket which can be folded up in a small space when not in use, the frame being formed of hinged members which lock fast when opened to support a canvas crib which is attached to a pivoted frame-

To prevent dust from getting on the chain and gear wheels of a bicycle the chain is surrounded by a pair of telescopic tubes, with drums at the ends to cover the gears, the shafts projecting through small holes in the side of the

To raise bread dough after it has been a reservoir underneath which is filled might dry out or burn.

HIS MONOPOLY The Stranger Who Showed the Restaurant Keeper a Thing or Two

One day a stranger came into Truman's restaurant, and, with a great display of secrecy, drew the proprietor of the eating lair aside and told him he now had a chance to grasp a fortune. Mr. Truman was out in that country for the sole purpose of grasping fortunes, and he told the stranger so and requested that he bring the fortune before him forthwith. "All right," said the other, and he produced to the view of Truman a large iron letter "O" of the condensed Gothic variety. "There it is." "What! that coupling link? Why, fool man, I can go up to the U. P. shops and get all of those I can cart away. 'That's the beauty of it," the other chuckled, slapping Truman on the back in exultation. "Nobody suspects the thing of having the power which rests in it. Everybody thinks it is a mere, plain, common coupling-link. You can go on making millions of dollars out of it, and nobody would ever imagine that to do it you were indebted for your opulence. That, sir, is a soup magnet.

"Um," said Lige. "What does it do?" "Do? Why, because of the electric fluid which it contains it has the property of making good soup out of mere hot water. You boil that magnet-I call it the Midas magnet-in a tank full of water and you will have a tank full of soup. There is no getting away from it. If you doubt it, and of course you do-nobody can at first believe the great truth of this marpot of hot water handy?

Lige accompanied the stranger to the two quarts of water into it, set it over the fire, inserted the iron and watched it while it simmered, meanwhile discoursing on the marvel of it all until Truman was pretty well worked up. "If it does what you say," he said,

"what'll you sell it for? "The beggarly pittance of $10," the keeper of Midas answered. "Now," the soupmaker remarked, "that pot contains all the basic elements of good soup. All I need is a little salt and pepper and some meat and an union to flavor it ." Truman quickly provided these, and in a few minutes the other pronounced the soup as ready for sampling. The restaurateur tasted it, and, to his surprise, found that it was good stuff, "I had expected to dispose of one at the "Well, here, I'll make it $15. You go on and get out of town. I want to have a speed.

The cook came down to get the evening meal under way. Truman, with great enabout the transaction. "We've got the "What do you say he used to flavor it with?" the cook inquired. Truman told him, and the cook tasted he compound before saying anything more. Then he murmured slowly: "Well, perhaps it is a good thing, but it seems to me that the soup would have been just as good with all those ingredients if he had left this piece of railroad iron out." Mr. Truman stared at the cook very carefully and painstakingly and then remarked, with a great deal of improper language, that that was so. He started down the street at a gait of about ninetyeight miles an hour to get $15 worth of satisfaction out of the stranger, but the atter was two through trains ahead of

For some reason Truman never worked his monopoly as he had intended .- Chicago Record. Acquitted for Killing his Wife's Lover.

Lexington, Ky., July 17.-City Judge Gray Falkener acquitted Jacob S. Harris for killing his wife's lover, Thomas H. E. Merritt, here last Friday night. holding that the action of the man who avenged the destruction of his blasted married life and his dishonored children by striking down the destroyer, after all, must be determined at the bar of human nature and human nature will excuse the one who so

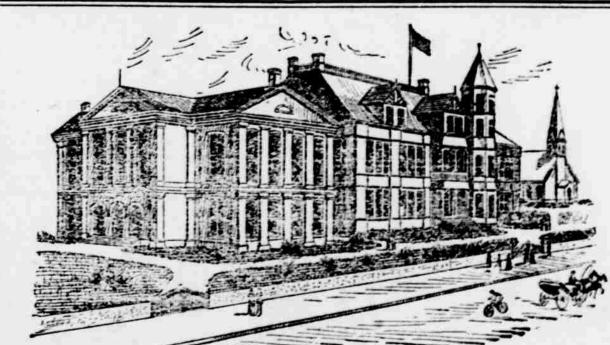

A new measuring bottle is filled with two different sized reservoirs on opposite sides of the neck with outlets at the bottom, in which corks are inserted, the bottle being tipped on one side to fill a reservoir holding the amount of liquid desired when the bottle is brought upright and the cork withdrawn to allow the liquid to

ELY'S CREAM BALM is a positive cure. Apply into the nostrils. It is quickly absorbed. 66 tents at Druggists or by mail; samples 10c. by mail, ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York Chy.

A Select Home School for Boys. Faculty of Specialists. HighlyIndorsed. Next Session begins Sept. 1st, 1897. COL. T. J. DREWRY. C. E., Principal jy 18 d&w 1m Fayetteville, N. C.

Ridge Institute!

Forty-Sixth Year. Twenty-two years under present principals, 224 Students attended last year. A HIGH GRADE COLLEGE PREPARTORY SCHOOL, with special departments of BOOKKEEPING, SHORTHAND and TELEGRAPHY. The largest and best equipped FITTING SCHOOL IN THE SOUTH. "Terms to suit the times." For beautiful new Catalogue address of a man. Address THE SINGER PROFS. J. A. & M. H. HOLT, Oak Ridge, N. C.